MANAGER COMMENT

The US Federal Reserve (US Fed) raised its benchmark interest rate for the first time since 2023, underscoring its continued focus on controlling inflation and maintaining price stability. The Bank of Japan (BOJ) increased its benchmark rate in September to its highest level since 1995 as it continued its gradual shift away from decades of ultra-accommodative monetary policy. Chinese President Xi Jinping and US President Donald Trump met at the White House, marking the second in an exchange of reciprocal presidential visits within six months. China's economy slowed notably in the second quarter of 2026, while Eurozone inflation rose to 3.8% in September, the highest reading since September 2023. The South African Reserve Bank (SARB) increased the repo rate by 25 basis points at its September meeting, in line with market expectations.

Global equity markets moved into negative territory in September, with the MSCI World Index ending the month down 1.19% m/m from the previous month's 2.58% m/m gains in US dollars, although conditions were tougher for most investors. A small cohort of AI beneficiaries skewed the headline numbers. Despite the monthly loss, the index posted double-digit gains of 11.75% year-to-date (YTD) in US dollars. The emerging market (EM) equity index appeared surprisingly resilient, although it was still in negative territory, with the MSCI EM Index ending at -0.50% in US dollars, although it was flattered by chip stocks. The FTSE 100 ended September down -1.88% m/m, from August's 0.69% m/m gains in pounds sterling. The S&P 500 finished the month in negative territory at -0.35% m/m, from August's 2.72% m/m gain, in US dollars. Global bonds detracted in September, ending the month at -1.98% m/m from August's 0.40% m/m gain, in US dollars. Global property continued its underperformance in September, ending at -5.65% m/m from August's -3.06% m/m, in US dollars. The Euro Stoxx 50 Index fell in September, ending -2.22% m/m from previous gains of 1.04% m/m in euros. The Dow Jones Index ended September in negative territory, down 4.12% m/m from August's 1.47% m/m gain, in US dollars. The Nikkei Index's August gains continued into September, ending the month up 1.22% m/m in yen terms.

The JSE struggled in September, with the FTSE/JSE All Share Index ending the month down 5.82% m/m in rand terms and 7.34% m/m in US dollars. Precious metals miners again drove index performance. After gaining 24.46% m/m in August, Resources ended September down 9.34% m/m and 1.19% YTD. Local property was positive for the month, ending at 0.46% m/n in rand terms, but declined 1.16% m/m in US dollars. Financials underperformed in September, ending at -3.66% m/m compared to August's -1.22% m/m. The Industrials sector ended the month up 0.46% m/m, from August's -4.92% m/m. Cash returns were positive at 0.56% m/m in rand terms, but negative at -1.06% m/m in US dollars. The FTSE/JSE All Bond Index ended the month up 0.01% m/m in rand terms but down 1.60% m/m in US dollars. Local bonds gained across the short and long end of the curve, with bonds of 1–3 years gaining 0.47% m/m, bonds of 3–7 years detracting 0.07% m/m, bonds of 7–12 years detracting 0.21% m/m, and bonds of 12 years and above gaining 0.20% m/m. The rand weakened 1.62% m/m against the US dollar, strengthened 0.61% m/m against the euro, and strengthened 0.41% m/m against the pound sterling.
